FOREST HILLS HIGH SCHOOL

JUNE 1945

FOREST HILLS, NEW YORK

Dedication

The privilege of graduating from high school is one that is almost universally enjoyed by the youth of America. As our graduation day approaches, we cannot help looking back over three years of war and thinking of the many young men who have foregone such rights and privileges as this in order to insure the principle of free education in a democracy. It is to these young men, whose sacrifices are enabling us to prepare ourselves for the great task of world peace, that we gratefully dedicate this edition of The Forester.

MISS RENEE J. FULTON

April 13, 1945.

Dear Seniors:

Today our country and all the United Nations are joined together in a common grief. Franklin D. Roosevelt has departed from his place as a leader in the world of men; but he has left behind a unique spiritual heritage. Even now his indomitable faith and relentless energies have brought our armies close to their ultimate objective. That victory is certain.

Yet there is a greater and more distant goal. It will be you, members of the class of June 1945, who will share in that final struggle. We look to you for an age of peace in the world of tomorrow. May you be strengthened by the faith and courage of a great man.

CLASS

Preface. Recent unprecedented developments in the economic, political and social life of Forest Hills High School—changes which have revolutionized this life almost overnight—call for a new record of events, or at least demand something more than the patching up of old chronicles. We, therefore, present this new history with the hope that it will enable the future student better to comprehend the trials and tribulations of his forebears.

Era of Exploration. Many hundreds of days ago, a strange band of nomads wandered into the newly formed colonies of Forest, Hill and Park to find freedom from grammar school persecution. For the first year they wandered aimlessly in the confusing labyrinth (corridors), plagued with the dread disease of confusionitis. This somewhat impeded their progress, but through perseverance and proper contacts, they finally succeeded in overcoming all obstacles, and their small communities flourished.

Struggle for Existence. The first year of settlement brought many hardships to the pioneers. Unaccustomed as they were to homework without representation, the majority became reconciled to this system, though some persisted in rejecting it. These radicals held their meeting in the principal's office, and gradually they were coerced, via anecdotals, into more rational ways of thinking. Life often became hectic for the peace-loving members of the tribe, who were constantly amazed at their more barbaric brothers' commando tactics in the dining halls, and their 100-yard dashes out of the lecture rooms.

A Summer's Work and a Federal Constitution. At last, achieving some progress in the field of government, they succeeded in establishing a new General Organization for all and an Arista Chapter for the most important citizens. When the spring thaw came, to celebrate their joy in having found a new haven, the pioneers participated in the Circus Maximus, and happiness spread throughout the land.

The Middle Ages. During the next few years, life became more bearable. By this time the conventional colonial dress had been acquired, a conservative mode prevailing.

The Highwaymen and the Rights of Women. Slinking about in enormous machine spun sweaters, the females of the community had many difficulties in warding off dangerous wolves. They had courage, however, and to keep up the morale of their men, a band of cheerers was formed. Accompanying their men to the battleground, they came into their own, and it was generally conceded that women could do other things besides home nursing. Many secured jobs in offices, and others joined clubs to pass the hours of the day.

HISTORY

A Marshal Tribe, composed of the bravest men in the land, patroled the highways throughout the long days, protecting the colonies from strange wanderers. The people commanded more respect and, considering themselves staid citizens, they began to view newcomers with a wary glance.

Emergence from Isolation. After four years of this strange existence, the settlers became restless and decided to venture into new, unexplored regions. Plans were made for their departure, and the tempo of life increased. Some, accustomed to the old way of life, or tied up in business, could not manage to join the explorers, but they tried as best they could to send their comrades off with happy smiles.

During all this time the settlers had gained the respect of the majority of newcomers. However, strutting about in their quaint, tri-colored hats, they smirked in self-satisfaction, arousing not a little enmity. Their antagonists were annoyed at the old codgers, for they did not realize that old age brings many idiosyncrasies. The government finally realized their plight, and certain concessions were made. Since they were unable to cope with the noisy multitudes, a special senior pathway, or staircase, was set aside for them, and, because they were particular about dining room atmosphere, they were granted a special place in which to eat.

About this time the first serious setback since colonial times hit the settlers, for they learned that their chief was about to retire. Much unhappiness resulted among the people, who were, however, appeased by the rise to power of a new, highly civilized leader.

Complications of the Machine Age. Into the well-known Guidance Office crowds of adventurers continually swarmed, trying to secure letters and documents to aid them in the new world. It was to no avail, and for six weary months hordes of confused settlers kept returning, hoping desperately for the coveted approval of the authorities.

Final Victory. For their four years of back-breaking toil, the senior members were decorated with medals in the unique form of keys, rings and bracelets. Finally, in June, 1945, at a big farewell gathering in honor of these illustrious citizens, certain members were rewarded for their exceptional contributions to the community, while every member received a scroll testifying to his loyalty. The occasion was both happy and sad, for though they looked forward to a bright future, there was ever-present the thought that they were exiles who no longer had a haven in the happy land where all their talents had been fostered.

BOYS' SPORTS

The athletic dream man, in any school, is the fellow who can make the varsity in just about every sport. Forest Hills can be proud of two such students who manage to keep themselves occupied all year round in varied activities. These athletes, Richy Elkind and Bob Johnston, have qualified for starting positions on no less than three teams.

Johnston's fame began when he was only a sophomore. He entered the track intramurals, immediately gaining recognition when he leaped to a mark of 17 feet 5 inches in the running broad jump. Bob was soon on the varsity, excelling in medium distance running. When the soccer season rolled around, Bob again made the varsity. The squad won the Queens championship that year and Johnston managed to notch his team's lone tally in the city finals with Lafayette. The basketball season did not find Bob idle. He played for a short stretch on the J. V. but soon moved up to the varsity. Johnston exhibited a fine brand of basketball during his two years on the squad and could usually be relied on when points were needed most.

Richard Elkind didn't make his debut in big time sports until the latter part of his high school career. Richy has a powerful physique and possesses a pair of unusually useful legs. Thus equipped, he did not find it difficult to secure berths in basketball and soccer. One may remember that during the Varsity-Faculty basketball game, Elkind connected with a tremendous set shot. Richard was also captain of the golf team, a veteran of two campaigns. His hidden talent, however, has not been realized, since the school supports no baseball team.

Another type of athlete is the boy who can combine studies with sports and produce a well blended product. Three students who have mastered this feat are Philip Ferro, Paul Fleischman, and Tom Schatski. Tom Schatski did fine work on the soccer and track teams. In the senior class Tom tops the list of composite high school averages, rating 94.81 per cent. Fleischman played on the soccer team for three years and was regarded as one of the top booters in the city. Paul devoted much of his time to the game but also managed to achieve high honors in the scholastic field. In fact, Dr. Lucey made special note of this in one of his speeches during an assembly program. Phil Ferro needs no introduction. He was well known in school politics, serving as president of the Park School for two years and G.O. president for one year. Phil's name was always a familiar sight on the honor roll; and to top it off, he was an active member of the fencing team for three seasons.

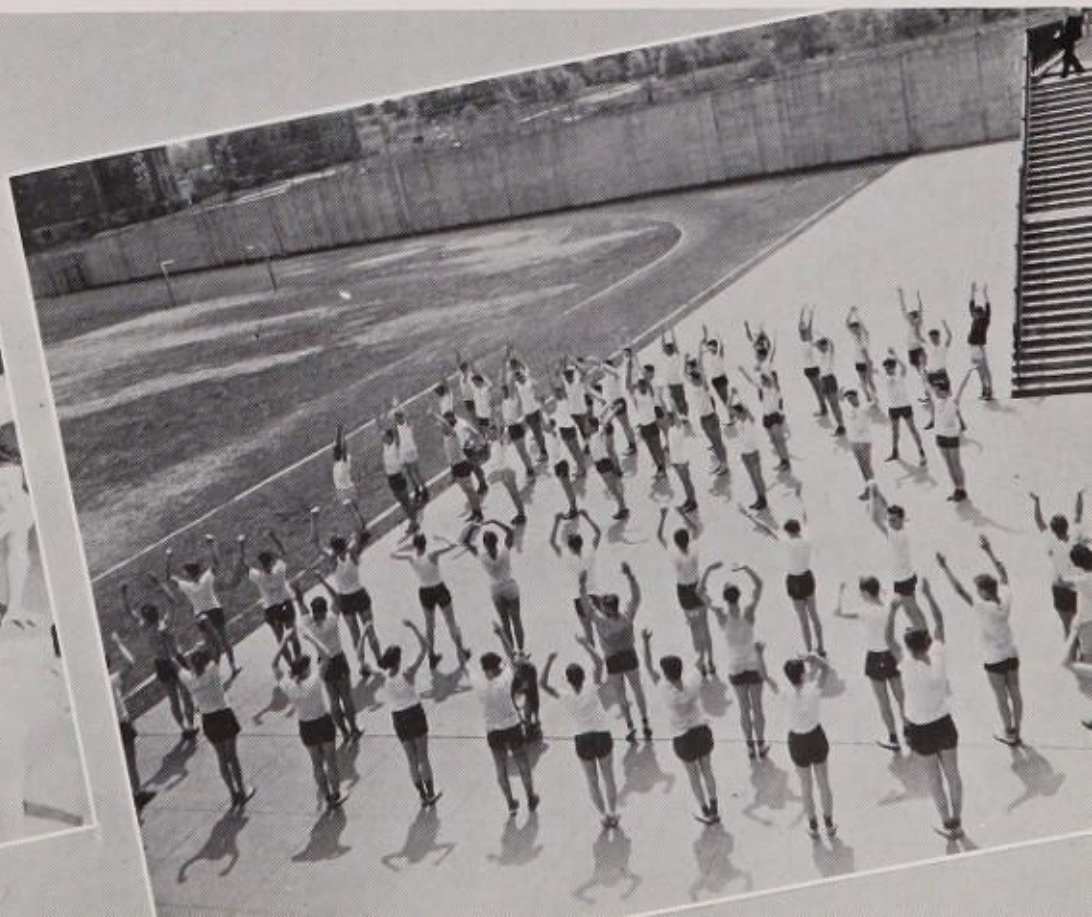
Our third type of athlete is the specialist. He is the fellow who goes in for just one sport and excels in it. Forest Hills is proud of two such athletes. They are Fred Scribner and Howard (Mickey) Silverstein. Scribner, a four year veteran at the net game, plays tennis exclusively. Fred made the squad when only a freshman and throughout his career ranked as one of the top netmen in the city. He also played in tournaments during the off-season, garnering many trophies. Silverstein played on the varsity basketball team for two seasons, gaining a reputation for his one-handed hook shot. In a contest with Long Island City, Mickey scored seventeen points.

When graduation takes its toll, the hardest hit of all the teams will be the soccer outfit. This squad will lose nine of its members: Bill Dickinson, Richy Elkind, Paul Fleischman, Bob Johnston, Jim Larkin, Ed Manser, Fred Prange, Stephen Rosendaal and Walter Sawch. The track team also will feel repercussions, for they will lose Richy Elkind, George Foy, George Frankel, Bob Johnston, Gene Labinson, Jim Larkin, Bob Lewis and Bob Steinthal.

The tennis aggregation has six men on the courts for a match and will be able to salvage only one third of that total for next season. The graduating players are Captain Fred Scribner, Max Lieberman, Walter Sawch, and Saul Silverman.

The only graduating basketball player other than the versatile Elkind is Howard Quimby. Vincent Drago and Leonard Schaen, who have competed in fencing and golf respectively, round out the list of departures.

Looking back at the records of these athletes, one realizes that through their efforts, Forest Hills High captured three championships. We offer them a vote of thanks for the past and wish them lots of luck in the future.



GIRLS'

We are taking this opportunity to pay tribute to those girls who have so generously contributed their athletic talents to our feminine world of sports. The history of the accomplishment of these girls dates back to September, 1941. This is an attempt to point out the highlights during this four-year period.

Long to be remembered are our energetic and hard-working cheerleaders. Jean Ackerman, Jane Cowenhoven, Estelle Katz, Rosemarie O'Keefe and Captain Rosemary Ritter have faithfully boosted the spirit of the boys on our basketball teams throughout the years. Clad in their bright red, well-fitting uniforms, they are obviously a drawing card at all games.

Anita Pappas, pride of the gym, has made good use of her G.O. dues by attending every club created by the Health Education Department in this school. Last term, Anita managed to grab the title of Badminton Champ from hard-to-beat Rhoda Simpson by a wide margin of 11-1. Anita's long legs and flexible wrist allowed her to carry off the game with ease. At present her popularity and splendid leadership have won for her the position of President of the Leaders' Club. There is a growing rumor that Miss Pappas is using her many emblems and medals to paper her bedroom walls.

Our tennis champion, Arline Linke, and the runner-up, Yvonne Antignat, have hammered away unmercifully on our might-as-well-be rationed tennis balls. Unfortunately, Arline and Yvonne, inseparable pals, have been forced to compete with each other during the past two years for the championship. Hearty congratulations and "oh you kid!" are extended to "Linkey," who has held the title for two successive terms and has won two beautiful prize statues for her efforts.

With the efficient assistance of such Leaders as Betty Bradshaw, Helen Forgach, Jacky Hertz, Edna Hollihan, Dolores Nurge, Margaret Vizcarrando, and Ruth Weigand—the Health Ed. teachers have survived these four years with no radical changes, either mentally or physically. These girls have been trustworthy, loyal, cheerful, and sportsmanlike throughout their terms of service.

Not easily forgotten is the contribution made by Dolores Nurge in several of our Victory Shows and assembly programs. Arthur Murray would be green with envy if he could see her graceful dance steps in the rhumba, conga, tango and samba.

Jane de Reynier, always ready to take over the class, brings back memories of bend 2-3-4, up 2-3-4, twist 2-3-4. With her gestapo-like commands, she would keep us exercising for whole periods at a time, accompanied at the piano by Jeri Joels. We mumbled sweet nothings under our breath, but we loved it.

Remember the many fun-filled hours spent on Friday afternoons in the Softball Club? Those were the days when Virginia Cali, our Babe Ruth in disguise, would send the ball soaring over the field for her usual home-run. Never to be forgotten is tall, lanky, Cynthia Daniel, who would stride up to the plate and wait for the windup with that determined home-run look. Poor Cyn, however, never managed to pass first base.

One game we graduates know how to play and probably will never forget is volleyball. Term after term we have patiently participated in this activity. Among our best players have been Joan Cassidy, Mildred Curtiss, Helen Forgach, Lee Honig, and Betty Lehman.

Another club that recalls memories of reckless collisions, stampedes, black eyes, and oh, yes—broken fingernails is good old speedball. What a game! It is a wonderful combination of football, soccer, and basketball. Lois Burn made many a successful touchdown with the aid of Anita Pappas and Mildred Curtis, who ran interference.

Without the warm friendship, leadership and patience of Miss Coghlan, Miss Appele, Miss Capodiferro, Miss Doyle, Miss Muller and Mrs. Sheets, all our athletic achievements could not have been accomplished. We are grateful to them not only for teaching us the rules and regulations of these various games but also for teaching us the meaning of sportsmanship.

THE EVOLUTION OF A FOREST HILLS SENIOR

FRESHMAN	SOPHOMORE	JUNIOR	SENIOR
I'll take Spanish, French, and Latin.	I dropped Latin last term.	I'm taking only Spanish.	English is a foreign language!
I'll make high school in three years.	I think I'll get out in three years.	I might as well do it in four years.	By the time I get out I'll be an octogenarian!
I'm going to Harvard.	Guess I'll go to N.Y.U.	Hope I get into Queens!	I'm in the infantry!
You can't find better food than in the Forest Hills lunchroom.	The food in the Forest Hills cafeteria isn't too bad.	There's food (or a reasonable facsimile thereof) in the Forest Hills cafeteria.	Ma! Do you think you have time to make me a couple of sandwiches?
"Suspense" pertains to a radio program.	We should avoid being suspended.	We are suspended when we misbehave.	Part of the term most of the SENIORS are on suspense.
I think I'll buy a new gym suit.	Maybe I'll take my gym suit home.	My gym suit can crawl home by itself.	Maybe I'll cut gym tomorrow.
I'm joining the Track Team.	Maybe I'll make the Track Team.	Me! On the Track Team?	I've been invited by Mr. R—— to participate in the Park School races on the third floor at 3:30 today.
The Up staircase is to go Up and the Down staircase is to go Down.	I want to use the elevator.	I want to use the SENIOR staircase.	SENIORS dash down the UP staircases and rush up the DOWN staircases.
Our prom will be held at the Ritz-Carlton.	Our prom will be at the Pierre.	We'll have a dance at the Forest Hills Community House.	WHO'S HAVING A PROM?
Teachers are human.	Teachers are human — sometimes.	Teachers are human?	Teachers are . . . Teachers!!

Last Will and Testament

Four long years we've been afloat in F.H.H., our sturdy boat.
We have worked to sail it right; terra firma's now in sight.
Still, despite our stormy trip, as we strove to man our ship,
Though we're proud to reach the end, on past teachings we depend.
And we're shedding salty tears for the fun we've had these years.
We are eager now to go, but we wish to let you know
That your worry, work, and pain surely have not been in vain.
And to each we leave one thing for the pleasure it may bring.
Harken, you of teaching skill, as we make our final will.

To Miss Doran, we leave a quiet mess hall.
To Mr. Haber, a bell buoy to aid in traffic.
To Mr. Hamje, oceans of talented musicians.
To Miss Hellwig, a handsome ensign.
To Mr. Hertzig, our Logs.
To Mrs. Kavanagh, the high "C's".
To Mr. Keyes, a mermaid.
To Mr. Leonard, a poopdeck from which he may observe life.
To Mrs. McCanna, a seaworthy Senate.
To Mr. Palleri, students with sturdy "Si" legs.
To Mr. Ritchie, a gangplank for his victims.
To Miss Sexton, a firmly anchored keyring.
To Mrs. Sheets, leaders who rise from the gym floor without the aid of a tug.
To Mr. Swirsky, a life preserver.
To Miss Whitcomb and all senior advisers, a long sea voyage to recuperate.

THE LAST OF THE SOOTHSAYERS

A short play

SCENE: The library of a country home. The shelves are lined with books on government, and in the large wing chair to the right of the fireplace is seated one ARTHUR YOUNG, newly appointed Ambassador to Spain. He is intently engaged in reading a newspaper. His wife enters and sits down directly opposite him. She speaks.

MRS. YOUNG: Give me a part of the paper, Art.

YOUNG: (Giving her the second section.) The TIMES is getting better every day, ever since FRIEDOPFER took it over last year. A great liberal, FRIEDOPFER.

MRS. YOUNG: Look, Art, MARY GEER has just been appointed President of Vassar. You remember Mary, don't you? She graduated from Forest Hills with us in '45.

YOUNG: So did MAX FRIEDOPFER. Look, my dear, PRESIDENT FERRO has announced two of his cabinet appointees already, ROBERT KEESHAN as Secretary of State and GEORGE UTLEY as Secretary of the Treasury.

MRS. YOUNG: Art, do you remember ROBERT HAYMAN? (She continues without waiting for an answer.) Listen to this. "ROBERT HAYMAN, multi-millionaire magnate, gives large donation to ELEANOR BERMAN Cancer Foundation." Isn't that wonderful?

YOUNG: Eleanor's done wonders with that foundation. Remember how she used to spend three periods a day in the Science Lab at school?

MRS. YOUNG: Why, Art, RICHARD LOW has been made principal of Forest Hills High. And look, they call it the "quaint little red schoolhouse". It's not true that they're going to tear it down. I heard that some senators from out West were trying to push such a bill through.

YOUNG: They tried to, but they wouldn't get far with a project like that. Now JOYCE MARTIN, BETTY BRADSHAW and BETTY LEHMAN, the New York representatives, are sponsoring a bill to recondition the building.

MRS. YOUNG: (Turning the pages) BETTY SALEM is opening as Lady Macbeth tonight at the Schlachter Theatre. I didn't know she was back in the States. We ought to go to see it.

YOUNG: (Chuckling) Listen to this. "New York Wolves Win 12th Consecutive Game at Garden. Team includes former FH Quintet." Remember how those boys used to play at school?

MRS. YOUNG: (Not answering) JOAN CASSIDY was appointed Commander of the Waves yesterday. Look at this wonderful picture of her accepting her commission. It was taken by BYERS and MARINO. They work for the TIMES.

YOUNG: (Losing his ambassadorial dignity) Yep. Quite a few of the 1945 graduates work for Max. MARSHALL LUSTIG is sports editor, you know, and MAXINE STEINMAN and FRANCINE BLUMENFELD are two of his star reporters. Why, only last week they won the Zisowitz Award for Journalism for that scoop on the United Nations Building.

MRS. YOUNG: Why, Art, the United States team won the Olympic Awards this year. It says here, "ANTIGNAT, LINK, and the KAFKAS walk off with top honor."

YOUNG: Yes, I noticed that before. Did you see this article about DR. JOHN PRAUSNITZ, who disproves Einstein's theory of relativity? After all these years. . . .

MRS. YOUNG: RUTH BROWN has finally received that appropriation for her Nursing Foundation. I'm so glad. She's appointed LORETTA FENNING superintendent of nurses.

YOUNG: HELEN FORGASH has been selected as Secretary for the United Nations Security Council.

MRS. YOUNG: That's a marvelous job. Hand me the movie section, Art, please.

YOUNG: I'm reading it. I see that WALTER SAWCH and BERYL WATSON are going to star in a remake of "To Have and Have Not". Remember when that first came out in '45? It seems so long ago. And MARK GENOA's opening at the Paramount tomorrow with RICK RICHARDS and his Rhythymaires. Remember the time a whole gang of us cut school and went to the Paramount?

MRS. YOUNG: Art, may I see the movie section, please?

YOUNG: (Ignoring this last request) Gene Krupa sold his band to PEG HAGGERTY. And look, the HY SPOTS are in a new picture: "Forest Hills HY SPOTS open in new musical comedy. Critics acclaim the MISSES RITTER, KATZ, O'KEEFE, ACKERMAN and COWENHOVEN as tops in talent".

MRS. YOUNG: Art. . . .

YOUNG: (Innocently) Did you say something, Lillian?

BUTLER: (At the door) Dinner is served, madam.

Alma Mater

Words and Music
by WILBUR HAMJE

Let us raise a song

To Alma Mater strong!

Our Guide and Stay she'll be for aye,

Her Pow'r will long sustain us.

When we must part,

Deep-graven in each heart,

Will live fond thoughts of yesteryear,

Of days at FOREST HILLS.
